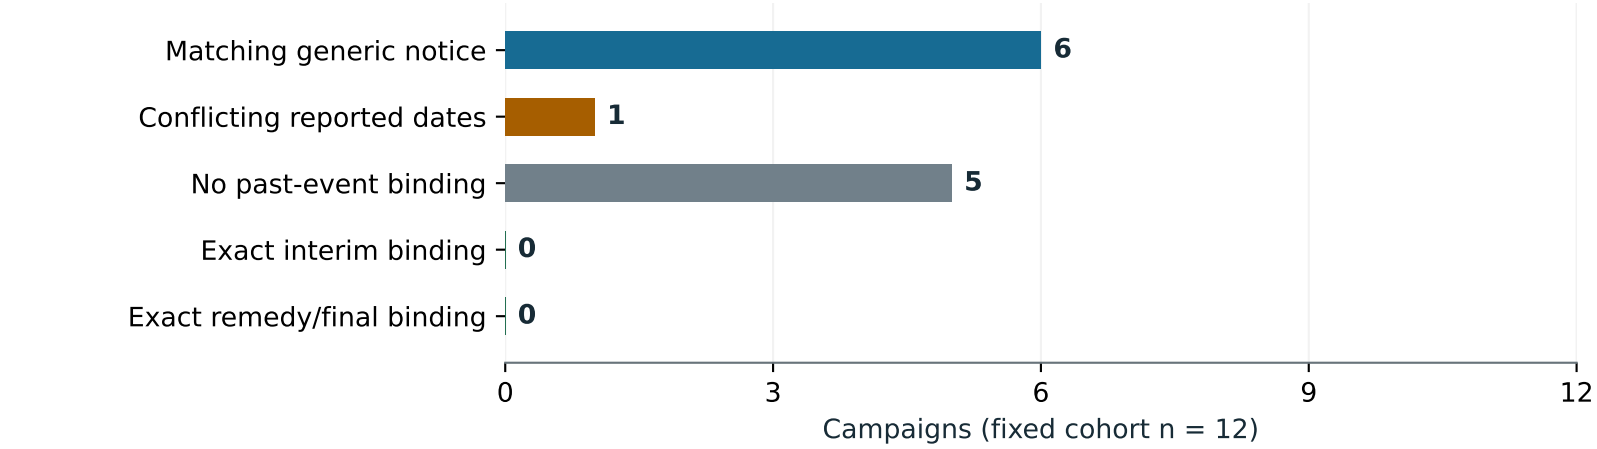
Notification fields do not establish a first-availability date

Conservative event-role coding preserves unsupported and conflicting bindings.



No physical first-availability date is established for any of the 12 campaigns.